Oh I forgot, she's a conservative. Totally different rules.

Here's where the "hate speech" argument falls flat.

They deleted Alex Jones from LinkedIn. LinkedIn! Unpersonned him 1984-style, Communist Chinese social credit score-style.

He uploaded zero content to LinkedIn.

This was a politically motivated, coordinated purge by Big Tech.

So now it's admitted that the Infowars ban was imposed as a result of lobbying from the media (CNN primarily) to shut down its competition. Incredible.

▪ Amid mounting public pressure to address Jones' hate speech, Apple's Tim Cook and Eddy Cue met over the weekend and decided to pull five of Jones' podcasts from their platform, sources familiar with the matter told me.

▪ Cook and Cue decided to let Jones' InfoWars app remain available in the app store because they felt it did not run afoul of their policy

▪ Hours after Apple announced its move, Mark Zuckerberg and his team at Facebook made the decision to pull four of Jones' pages from their platform.

▪ Zuckerberg only moved to remove these pages after learning about Apple's decision, Facebook sources said. That is why the pages were removed at 3 a.m. Pacific Time.

▪ YouTube's Susan Wojcicki and Spotify's Daniel Ek similarly moved to ban some of Jones' content only after learning about Apple's decision.

▪ There was no coordination between Apple, Facebook and any of the other tech firms, sources familiar with the matter said. The decisions were made independently.

The Big Picture: Big tech is still making decisions about speech on a vague, case-by-case basis, often due to public pressure or the actions taken by its competitors. There needs to be a consistent approach.

Apple chose to shut down Infowars after repeated criticism of them selling data to and working with Communist Chinese government. Just a coincidence.

Apple needs to leave America, and just move to China. With Apple suppressing the free speech on conservatives, I'm not going to buy their products any more. Conservatives will unite over the suppression of free speech, we will hold these companies accountable

It's not censorship They're private companies They don't owe you a platform to spread your misinformation & idiocy Perhaps if you & your little friends used reputable sources, didn't interfere w/ trials or push a hate-fuelled, divisive agenda, you'd have nothing to cry over

   It's not censorship They're private companies They don't owe you a platform to spread your misinformation & idiocy Perhaps if you & your little friends used reputable sources, didn't interfere w/ trials or push a hate fuelled, divisive agenda, you'd have nothing to cry over

Facebook has permanently BANNED Infowars.

For unspecified "hate speech". They didn't even tell us what the offending posts were.

This sets a chilling precedent for free speech.

To all other conservative news outlets - you are next.

The great censorship purge has truly begun.

Now that Facebook has banned Infowars, it will be very interesting to see which conservative news outlets and commentators speak out and which ones remain complicit in silence.

Whatever you think of Infowars, they're coming for you next.

Former Obama official demands Twitter ban Alex Jones.

Former Dem presidential candidate Howard Dean says Alex Jones endorses "nazism," provides zero evidence.

This is a political purge. Plain and simple.

Dr. Robert Epstein says Google helped shift 2 to 3 million votes in Hillary Clinton's favor with bias search algorithms.

Big Tech censorship is election meddling.

Epstein is now working on large scale monitoring "to detect manipulations on the part of these tech companies".

"I actually set up a small scale monitoring system which worked beautifully, and which looked at bias in search rankings that people were seeing before the 2016 election looking at Google Bing and Yahoo, not just Google I was able to preserve more than 13 000 election related searches, more than 90,000 web pages to which the search results linked," he explained

I was able to analyze this looking for bias toward either Clinton or Trump in search results. I found a very clear bias toward Mrs. Clinton, enough to shift possibly 2 or 3 million votes without anyone knowing that this was occurring because you can t see bias in search rankings You have to set up monitoring systems that allow you to look over people s shoulders as they are using their computers and mobile devices. It s kind of like what the Nielsen company does when it monitors people s television watching " he said

I m now working with some business partners, some academic colleagues actually on three continents We are in the process of building large scale monitoring systems. Eventually when these systems are in place, we will be able to detect manipulations on the part of these tech companies in some cases probably within minutes of when they try something he anticipated.

CNN's top national security analyst wrote that the invasion of Libya wouldn't be disastrous like Iraq.

The invasion wrecked Libya, led to the rise of ISIS, the global migrant crisis & killed hundreds of thousands (mainly Muslims).

Index on Censorship (chaired by Orwell Prize-winning London Times journalist David Aaronovitch), slams Big Tech banning of Infowars.

"All speech – eccentric, heretical, provocative and even bigoted – should be protected unless it incites violence."

Even Jimmy Dore, who hates Alex Jones so much he once infamously spat in his face, is concerned about free speech being arbitrarily removed on the whim of billionaire corporate moguls.

Let that sink in.

CNN's top national security analyst wrote that the invasion of Libya wouldn't be disastrous like Iraq.

The invasion wrecked Libya, led to the rise of ISIS, the global migrant crisis & killed hundreds of thousands (mainly Muslims).

To whom do I report this harmful fake news?

Remember that Swedish refugee activist who stopped a migrant being deported by preventing a plane from taking off?

Remember how she was celebrated as a progressive hero?

The man she saved was a wife beater and a child abuser.

Confirmed: Zuckerberg personally made the decision to ban Infowars on Facebook.

So did Apple CEO Tim Cook.

Billionaire owners of giant corporations controlling public discourse.

Deciding what you can see and read.

And liberals celebrated this.

infowars.com/confirmed-mark ...

> Late Sunday, Apple which has often tried to stake out moral high ground on contentious debates removed Infowars podcasts from iTunes. After seeing the news, Mr. Zuckerberg sent a note to his team confirming his own decision the strikes against Infowars and Mr. Jones would count individually, and the pages would come down. The announcement arrived at 3 a.m. Pacific time.

If Twitter is now banning "extremist groups," why does Antifa and Westboro Baptist Church still have accounts? Could it possibly be because neither of those groups will have an impact on the mid-terms that is negative for Democrats?

Let me remind you that Antifa believes everyone right of Stalin to be a fascist.

This is open incitement of violence.

Infowars.com is down after a likely Denial-of-service attack (DDoS).

This has been happening all week following CNN's lobbying campaign to have us banned.

We are currently working to restore the website.

The "Nazis are everywhere" hysteria is a contrived moral panic fueled by the mainstream media, just as the "Satanic panic" was in the 80's & 90's.

It's harmful bullshit and it must stop.

CNN has published an article which literally claims Infowars is "complicit in domestic terror" - with zero evidence to back up such an incendiary claim.

This is why CNN is fake news.

edition.cnn.com/2018/08/06/opi ...

This new decision is a step forward in recognizing that hate outlets, such as InfoWars, are complicit in domestic terror and a relief to Muslim Americans, like myself, who have been the target of online assaults and threats.

Hi @jack - your website has been ruined by brigades of professionally offended mobs who abuse the platform to silence anyone they disagree with.

Will you act to remedy this, or shall half of us just leave now and let you have your crumbling, echo chamber as it turns to dust?

UKIP leader Batten on Westminster attack.

"This is yet another attack in a long line of them and the reason why we have barriers at public buildings. The elephant in the room is the growth of literalist and fundamentalist Islam n our country which has led to our public buildings being under a state of permanent siege.

"Not that long ago we didn't have police with sub-machine guns on the corners of every public building. We must drop political correctness and confront these issues openly. If we don't then we will simply be allowing these dark forces to take control of our country."

To emphasise, Twitter has censored Alex Jones because of a video in which he complained about being censored.

This is the Internet all you fake "progressive" authoritarians wanted.

Where whoever has the most insistent mob gets to make and enforce the rules.

Good luck.

Facebook seems lost. I was having a debate with a muslim friend I am antithiest and it blocked links I was sending to him from reputable sources. They were only factual videos about the origins of islam but ackowledging the historical violence

That's the weirdest thing about all of this. I've never been a Republican. I HATED them during the Bush admin (I was just old enough to be political). But I couldn't align with Dems. So I became libertarian/independent. Loved #wikileaks then, love it now

While lobbying to ban Infowars, the mainstream media is giving the alt-right a platform yet again.

As I've said numerous times, the MSM loves the alt-right because they use them to smear conservatives.

The alt-right loves the MSM because they wouldn't otherwise have a platform.

Dr. Robert Epstein says "private company" argument is "dangerous nonsense."

"Who on Earth gave these private companies the power to make decisions about what everyone in the world is going to see or not see?"

"These companies shouldn't have that power, period,"

It s complete nonsense and it's quite a dangerous argument," Epstein responded. "By the way they only make that argument when it's convenient. There are times when they argue just the opposite, saying they re just passive platforms and they don t make editorial decisions. Of course this is an extreme example of them not acting as passive platforms and making extreme decisions about content."

"The big issue here, no matter what one thinks of Alex Jones, is 'Who on Earth gave these private companies the power to make decisions about what everyone in the world is going to see or not see?' he said

"That s the key issue here. Who gave this power to these companies? And the answer is, nobody. Nobody has thought this through. There are no relevant laws or regulations in place, at least in the United States. If people really started thinking about this, they would realize – again, no matter what their feelings are about Donald Trump, or Alex Jones, or anyone else – wait a minute, these companies shouldn t have that power, period," he said

A reminder that standards of "hate speech" are being determined on behalf of Big Tech by the SPLC, a group that was forced to pay Maajid Nawaz, a Muslim reformist, a $3million+ settlement for libeling him as an "anti-Muslim extremist".

> These policies sound good on first reading, but they are extraordinarily vague. We live in times when the slightest deviation from the latest and ever-changing social justice style guide is deemed bigoted and, yes "dehumanizing." We live in a world where the Southern Poverty Law Center, a formerly respected civil-rights organization, abuses its past trust to label a host of mainstream organizations (including my former employer, the Alliance Defending Freedom) and individuals as "hate groups," "white nationalists" or "anti-Muslim extremists," based sometimes on disagreements about theology or sexual morality or sometimes on outright misreadings and misrepresentations of an individual's beliefs and views.

With the Infowars ban, Apple, Facebook & Spotify have all now ascribed themselves the power to remove people & outlets from their platforms based on their political opinions.

For conservative media outlets who don't speak out because they don't like Infowars - you're next.

According to Apple, if you don't respect people with different views, you will be banned.

Does this mean it is necessary to respect people who advocate child marriage and honor killings simply to have a platform?

> "Podcasts that violate these guidelines are removed from our directory making them no longer searchable or available for download or streaming. We believe in representing a wide range of views, so long as people are respectful to those with differing opinions."

Apple confirmed the accuracy of its statement to CNN.

- Facebook hires bias, partisan mainstream media "fact checkers."

The notion the hijab is a symbol of liberation, when women across the world are persecuted for not wearing it, is the ultimate example of fake news.

CNN is legitimizing a tool of oppression that harms women.

CNN has zero moral high ground lecturing others about "fake news".

Instead of spending money on real policing, our govt. is spending money on pushing news stories about violent crime in London down in search result rankings.

Burying the news won't stop people from being stabbed & acid attacked, you utter fucking spoons.

Judge who sent him to jail did not even watch the video that led to his arrest.

Completely absurd situation and a disgrace to the judicial process. Release Tommy now.

It's pathetic when Putin calls out the Deep State & our own elected officials on the Left don't seem to have a problem with it. Remember, Russia has lots of dirt. Trump acknowledges meddling by Russia and that's what's triggering the left. Meanwhile, Putin is laughing.

Remember when protests meant something?

Remember when the people who attended them actually knew why?

Remember when it wasn't just one smug, sanctimonious, middle class fancy dress party?

Problem is. Most of the protests are paid by people like Gorge Soros, as propaganda for their Globalist political reasons. These protests are fabricated, to cause division and undermine government to bring in their own corrupt leadership. Sick but true

Conservative MP Owen Paterson on Brexit plan: "This is much worse than we thought. We have been lied to."

"This has to be stopped. The anger around this place is shocking right now."

BRUGES GROUP EXCLUSIVE.

I've just come out of a meeting at the House of Commons with Brexiteer Conservative MP Owen Paterson He had just come from the chamber where he had been questioning the Brexit secretary Dominic Raab on the just released Chequers Proposal

To say he was incandescent would be an understatement He was physically shaking with anger He gave a brief statement, which she was happy to have quoted here.

"This is much worse than we thought We have been lied to

This document breaks Manifesto commitments.

It's really really bad

We will not be able to vote to support any of this

This has to be stopped

The anger around this place is shocking right now

Brexiteers aren't stupid, they know they are being shafted if this Proposal goes through.

I will do everything in my power to stop it."

"None of them is remotely alt-right." The Spectator is probably the first respected media outlet in the world to report this truth.

> None of them is remotely 'alt right', but this hasn't stopped their enemies on the left trying to tar them with that brush. After failing in his efforts to have YouTube shut down our channel, CNN's Oliver Darcy is now lobbying Facebook to shut us down.

Would he have supported book burning too?

CNN using its vast resources & institutional power to shut down a small competitor.

CNN is not an impartial news outlet, it is an activist organization that is using its huge resources and power to try to strangle its competitors.

Approval ratings.

- Trump: 47%
- May: 35%
- Trudeau: 35%
- Macron: 32%

Factor in Trump's 90%+ negative media coverage, while the rest get generally positive media coverage.

Incredible if you think about it.

Enlighten us, friend) what is it?

Bargain Bin Witch™ @bobinthomas 11 jul

Well for starters in the sense that you all like to use it, it's become a buzzword that's basically lost all meaning. Chrissy thought of a funny response she gave it. She remains unbothered so she wasnt really triggered into anything.

The man behind the Sadiq Khan baby balloon tells me a they plan to launch it at a protest in London against the rise of violent crime on Khan's watch. Victims have been invited to speak. Should be big.

Isn't a curb stomp that horrendous act of stomping on someone's head while their mouth is open on a curb, thus causing irreversible damage to their face or possibly killing them? That sounds like a fair trade for wearing a hat. So sick of this violent talk.

A curb stomp, also called curbing, curbchecking, curb painting, or making someone bite the curb is a form of assault in which a victim's mouth is forcefully placed on a curband then stomped from behind, causing severe injuries and sometimes death. Wow because of a hat? ▸▸

New Gallup survey: Only 23% of liberals are "extremely proud" to be Americans.

65% of conservatives are "extremely proud" of their nationality.

Patriotism is love of country, not government.

Does this mean liberals hate America?

Surely not.

Yet abortion is partly responsible for the population decline. Why import people when you could encourage more children? Also, with automation do we need low skilled workers? More on welfare instead of working? Seems like the present policies are a recipe for disaster

VAR is turning into a farce. That clearly wasn't a penalty, yet the pressure of the ref being told to look at it made him change his mind.

It's supposed to eliminate human error, yet only slows the game down and causes confusion.

An EU committee has passed Article 11 & 13, which will create a de facto ban on memes and impose a "link tax," completely destroying the Internet as we know it.

The proposal will be voted on by the European Parliament next month.
